Our People

We have 6,600 employees worldwide.

At EQ, we want all colleagues to feel supported, and we have in place a wide range of people policies to protect employees, covering every aspect of the employee lifecycle. This includes resourcing and recruiting, from how candidates are vetted, through to on-boarding and induction. Several policies cover issues such as holiday entitlement, sickness, maternity and paternity arrangements, while a series of other policies relate to the facilities our people make use of at work, such as data, equipment and systems. We also have policies outlining our approach to informal complaints, grievances, whistleblowing and disciplinary matters, as well as redundancy and termination. In 2023, we invested significant time and resource to update all of our people policies, fronted by a Global employee handbook, to improve user experience, bolster employee engagement and promote our values globally.

Underpinning all of our people policies is a strong culture of diversity and inclusion, and we have global and local diversity and inclusion councils in operation to ensure fair and equal treatment of employees, supported by policy and strong colleague engagement. Our colleague-led Wellbeing, Inclusion and Multicultural networks are central to this alongside our executive sponsors, held accountable by our Global Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Council.

We work globally with the Top Employers Institute to benchmark and continuously improve our people practices. In 2025 we were ranked in the top 25% of Top employers in the UK, India and US.

We are a values-led organisation where being collaborative in our approach, trusted to deliver, commercial in our focus and always seeking to improve, guides our everyday. Our values are embedded throughout the organisation from performance management and recognition to engagement and even how we're audited. We believe that living our values will help us achieve our vision to be the leading global share registrar.

Within the UK, EQ is an accredited Real Living Wage employer and pays at least the Real Living Wage (above the UK minimum wage). We comply with the EU Working Time Directive and do not operate zero-hour contracts. Where we utilise temporary workers, we pay above the minimum wage and are compliant with Agency Worker Regulations. EQ has a transparent job level and pay range structure.

EQ is compliant with all employment related legal requirements in the international jurisdictions it operates from and utilises similar or identical people policies to those which apply to colleagues in the UK. Training for required skills and competencies is also provided to all international colleagues.

MyCSP reserves one seat on its Board for a Director nominated by the employees. The nominated Director is actively involved in all levels of company governance and a member of all key decision-making bodies within MyCSP.

EQ's US offices meet or exceed all Federal, State and local laws and regulations related to minimum wage, time off, and leaves of absence.

EQ India Private Limited enforces an anti-sexual harassment policy, to protect the safety of all its employees, free of any gender prejudice or sexual harassment (including safety from persons coming into contact at the workplace) and has a zero-tolerance policy towards any instance of sexual harassment. EQ India has a defined pay structure to ensure salaries are competitive and fair in the market.

Our Training

At EQ, we ask all new starters to complete a mandatory Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking eLearning module which forms part of their induction into EQ. This training module is also available to all colleagues on our eLearning Hub so colleagues can refresh their learning at any point in time.

Our Suppliers

While the risk of modern slavery within EQ's direct business operations remains low due to our reliance on a highly skilled, professional workforce, as is the case for many organisations, we recognise our biggest exposure to modern slavery risk is our supply chain.

Our standard supplier agreements contain a contractual obligation requiring compliance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

EQ's preferred suppliers provide us with technology, human resources, print and mail services, facilities management, travel and professional services. EQ segments its suppliers by risk to protect our business and our ability to deliver to our customers.

We have analysed our suppliers based on geography, category and spend. 56% of our direct suppliers are based in the UK, 24% in the US, 10% in Europe, and the remaining 10% are based across the rest of the world.

Higher risk areas in relation to procurement for professional-service businesses like EQ tend to be in IT hardware and facilities management (for example cleaning and security). EQ will always contract with organisations with strong reputations for ethical and human rights standards to provide these goods and services.

Our Supplier Relationship Management (SRM) framework provides supplier relationship strategies, commensurate with the level of risk and complexity of the relationship, optimising engagement with Critical and High-Risk suppliers. The SRM system supports segmentation and due diligence providing greater visibility and understanding of the risk of potential suppliers and their services. This allows us to undertake the right level of due diligence at onboarding and, where applicable, through the life of the contract.

Due diligence activity is enhanced for higher risk suppliers.

Our Supplier Code of Conduct clearly sets out our expectations of suppliers in relation to environmental responsibility, modern slavery, data protection, human rights and ethics. This is reviewed and, where applicable, updated, annually. This can be found on our web pages and it is sent to all new suppliers as part of our welcome letter. In line with the SRM tool, we ask our High-Risk Tier suppliers to electronically confirm acceptance/ compliance to the code in our due diligence questionnaire.

Where EQ is unable to satisfy itself that a supplier is not aligned to the Act, or our Supplier Code of Conduct, it will firstly work with that supplier to ensure compliance or failing that, terminate the contract.

All Group employees with procurement and outsourcing responsibilities are provided with appropriate training and guidance to ensure that they are able to assess the human rights and labour performance of suppliers.

Our Policies on Slavery and Human Trafficking

We have appropriate policies in place that underpin our commitment to ensure that there is no modern slavery or human trafficking in our supply chains or in any part of our business. We continuously review and update all our policies.

We have a wide range of policies governing Environmental, Social and Governance (ESG) issues, which link to our risk management framework and controls. Our Social & Ethical Business Policy covers modern slavery, human trafficking, and human rights, and outlines key controls which help assess and manage any risks related to modern slavery and human trafficking.

The Responsible Business Handbook supports our ESG related policies, including the Social & Ethical Business Policy. The handbook is available to all colleagues and provides information and guidance on how business areas and risk leaders can ensure compliance with the policies and apply them in practice and helps to build awareness and accountability throughout our business on ethical issues which affect everyone. This is reinforced by our Behaviours and Conduct policy which provides guidance to colleagues on working together with integrity and embedding EQ's values.

Raising concerns safely

In addition to our people policies outlined above, we have a very clear Whistleblowing Policy, supported through detailed guidance to colleagues within the Compliance Handbook which provides the options for colleagues to raise concerns safely. Colleagues have the option to raise this either internally through email/telephone or through the external Safecall service. Safecall allows all EQ colleagues including contractors, temporary workers, as well as suppliers, to raise concerns about serious wrongdoing anonymously. It is available 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes our Group's slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year ending 2024. It was approved by the board on 9th September 2025.
