Overview

Educational by design. An executive briefing at the New York Stock Exchange, built around the decisions issuers face. Candid perspectives from issuers, counsel, and industry leaders, with time for your own questions.

Why attend

Learn how tokenization works

A clear, practical grounding in tokenized shares, built for issuers, their counsel, and their advisers

Hear what is happening in the industry

Where market infrastructure and US regulation stand today, with a legal and regulatory update

See real-world applications

Watch tokenization happen live, and hear how public companies apply it

Hear from industry experts and your peers

Equiniti, Bullish, and public company leaders, with an open floor for your questions

Grow your professional network

Meet legal, finance, and investor relations leaders from other public companies at the reception

Stay ahead of industry trends

Understand what is coming before your board, investors, and advisers start asking about it

Outcomes

Bring value back to your organization

Distinguish issuer-sponsored, infrastructure-sponsored, and third-party tokenization models

Identify implications for shareholder rights, governance, and the official ownership record

Evaluate the issuer lift, controls, costs, and potential business case

Understand implications for corporate actions, M&A, and investor communications

Determine what your company should monitor, prepare, or decide next
